DETAILED ACTION

This action is in response to applicant's amendments submitted 20 December 2006.

Election/Restrictions

1. This application contains claims 6-51 drawn to an invention nonelected with traverse in Paper No. 21 August 2006. A complete reply to the final rejection must include cancellation of nonelected claims or other appropriate action (37 CFR 1.144) See MPEP § 821.01.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by EDWARDS (US #5,536,267).

Regarding claim 1, Edwards teaches a medical instrument comprising an elongate member (12) with a plurality of hollow needles (20, Col 6 line 27) in a bulbous ovoid configuration (Fig 6).

Regarding claim 2, all the needle elements communicate with the lumen of the elongate member (Fig 2).

Regarding claims 3 and 4, the needles can be retracted into a collapsed storage configuration through the application of an external force (i.e. the walls of the elongate member) and then spring back to the bulbous ovoid shape (See Fig 7 and Fig 12-Fig 13)

Regarding claim 5, there is a straight hollow needle connected proximally to the catheter (proximal end of tube 12, connected to handle 18)

3. Claims 1-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by CRANDELL (US #5,304,120).

Regarding claim 1, Crandell teaches a medical instrument comprising an elongate member (24) with a plurality of hollow needles (injection tubes 16) in a bulbous ovoid configuration (Fig 2 or 6A).

Regarding claim 2, all the needle elements communicate with the lumen of the elongate member.

Regarding claims 3 and 4, the needles can be retracted into a collapsed storage configuration through the application of an external force (i.e. the walls of the elongate member) and then spring back to the bulbous ovoid shape (through retraction of cap 20)

Regarding claim 5, there is a straight hollow needle connected proximally to the catheter (proximal end of tube 24, not shown in Figures)

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments filed 20 December 2006 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

3. Regarding Crandell, applicant asserts that Crandell does not teach needle elements. Crandell discloses that elements 20 may be needle electrodes and may be hollow (See Col 4 line 22 and Col 6 line 27). Furthermore, a needle by definition does not have to be hollow, and applicant has not claimed a hollow needle or a needle capable of delivering fluid.

4. Regarding Edwards, applicant has argued that Edwards is not flexible so as to traverse a biopsy channel. However, Edwards is closed as being used within the vasculature. Since a biopsy channel may be of any length or dimension, Edwards would meet this limitation. Furthermore, a recitation of the intended use of the claimed invention must result in a structural difference between the claimed invention and the prior art in order to patentably distinguish the claimed invention from the prior art. If the prior art structure is capable of performing the intended use, then it meets the claim.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
